馬加烈李姑娘粵語解釋 (每逢星期一、三、六晚六時中至六時四十五分)

(四百五十千週波) 15. WILL AND SHALL, SPECIAL USES WILL 及 SHALL 之特別用法

TEACHER: The BBC brings you ENGLISH BY RADIO. In recent lessons you have learnt that there are several ways of expressing future time without using the words shall and will. For example: we're having fish for dinner to-morrow. MARY: 明天我們以魚佐膳◆ DAVID: My dog's going to have puppies soon.

我的狗快將產小狗丁 o Remember the importance of the Present Continuous and of going to. But don't think that shall and will are u important. They have many special uses. Mary and David are going to give you some examples of these. Mary is going to make statements or ask questions not using will and shall. David is going to repeat these statements and questions in a different way. David will use will and shall. Listen carefully and you will see the meanings of will and shall. Do you want me to buy some writing - paper for MARY: 你 罗我替你 買些寫字用的紙嗎? DAVID: Shall I buy some for you?

我替你買些好嗎? MARY: I should like you to help me with this work. 我想你帮我做選工作。 DAVID: Will you help me with this work, please. 請你帮我做還工作。 W ald you like to go for a walk with me on Sunday? MARY: 你喜歡同我於星期日去散步嗎? DAVID. Will you go for a walk with me on Sunday?

星期 你同我去散步嗎? I promise to give you back the book next week. MARY: 我答允於下星期把甚交厄你。 You shall have the book back next week. DAVID: \ ・下星期你一定得回還本書。 I refuse to li-ten to such foolish talk. MARY:

我拒絕不聽遺種就認說話。

I wen't listen i . uch toolish talk. 我不顧聽這個就謬說話。 TEACHER: In all those sentences will and shall were used in special ways. Let's consider these special meanings. one by one. Will is used with the first person pronouns, I and we, to express willingness. Listen to an example. If David asked Mary to marry him, and if Mary agreed, they might talk like this.

馬利·你錄我嗎? MARY: Yes, I will. 是的·我願意餱你。 TEACHER: Mary didn't say 'Yes, I shall' or Yes, I'm going to.' She said: -

Mary, will you marry me?

DAVID:

MARY: Yes, I will, 是的·我願意。 TEACHER: She meant 'I am willing to marry you.' Now let's take the question form, shall I. The meaning of this is 'Would you like me to do this' or 'do you want me to do that'. Listen to an example. DAVID: Shall I tell our friends about our engagement? 我要把我們訂婚的事告訴我們的朋友嗎? TEACHER: That was a question to Mary, asking whether she wanted their friends to be told about their engagement. Listen to another example. DAVID: Shall we get married soon, Mary? 我們快要結婚了嗎, TEACHER: Another question asking Mary whether she wants to get married soon. Now let's consider will with the second person pronoun you. In the question form will you, it makes a request. It's almost the same as 'please'. Listen to an example. MARY: I'm feeling cold. Will you close the window, David? 我覺得冷· 你可把篋門腦閉嗎· TEACHER: 'Will you close the window' - that means the same as 'Please close the window.' Note how we distinguish an invitation from a question about intention.

DAVID: Will you have this cake, Mary? 你要吃了選件餅嗎, TEACHER: That was an invitation. It meant: 'Please have this cake.' Now a question about intention. DAVID: Are you going to have this cake, Mary?

你吃遺件餅嗎。 TEACHER: You see the difference. David is not now inviting Mary to have the cake, he's asking whether she intends to have it. Perhaps he's hoping to have it himself. Listen to another example. Will you come to the cinema to-morrow afternoon. DAVID:

Mary? 你明天下午要到來看電影,馬刊?

TEACHER: That was a request, an invitation, Now future inten-MARY: Are you going to the theatre this week, David? 你這星期去看戲嗎。 TEACHER: That was not invitation. Perhaps Mary was hoping for an invitation. Are you going to the theatre this week, David? MARY: - 你這星期去看戲嗎, 大衡? Yes, I am. Will you come with me? DAVID:

是的,我去。你要到來同我去嗎? TEACHER: You see, Mary was successful. She got the invitation.
